

POL 630: PROSEMINAR IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Purdue University
 Fall 2018
 Thursdays, 1:30 - 4:20pm, BRNG B206

Professor Swati Srivastava
 Office: BRNG 2258
 Office Hours: Thursdays, 11am - 1pm
svivas70@purdue.edu

Course Description

This is the core graduate survey course in International Relations, designed to introduce you to a wide range of theoretical and empirical work in the field. One purpose is to provide you with a broad overview of the past, present, and future of the discipline in preparation for further study as well as masters and doctoral exams. Another purpose is to cultivate your scholarly sensibilities through thinking, listening, talking, and writing about how the world “hangs together.”

Learning Outcomes

At the conclusion of this course, you will be able to:

1. Synthesize major debates in the field of International Relations;
2. Develop productive critiques of leading approaches;
3. Analyze arguments of texts and your peers in discussion; and
4. Produce scholarly insights via oral and written communication.

Required Texts

Most readings will be available on Blackboard, except for these required books:

1. Baylis John, Steve Smith, and Patricia Owens, eds. 2017. The Globalization of World Politics, 7th edition. (Amazon has new and used copies from $47.)
2. Peters, Margaret. 2017. Trading Barriers: Immigration and the Remaking of Globalization. (Amazon has new copies from $26.)

I have listed ten recommended readings for each week. These are not meant to be exhaustive, but will suffice to get you started on a particular issue. They will also be useful for exam preparation and some are also required for the final paper (see below).

Reading Load

As there is no research paper requirement for this class, the reading load is substantial. In preparation for our three-hour seminar every week, I expect you to spend at least nine hours reading and taking notes. Please plan your schedule accordingly.

Course Requirements

|----------------------------|-----------------------|
| Participation: | 40% |
| Attendance: | 15% (every class) |
| Weekly posts: | 15% (every class) |
| Authors' defendant: | 10% (one class) |
| Short Papers: | 60% |
| Reconstruct: | 10% (due week 4) |
| Compare: | 10% (due week 8) |
| Critique: | 15% (due week 12) |
| Produce: | 25% (due finals week) |

Assignments

Attendance:

I expect you to attend all classes and participate thoughtfully and consistently. You are allowed to miss one class without penalty. There will be no make-up assignments for missed attendance. Moreover, the course will be driven by discussions rather than lectures. Come well-prepared: keep up with the readings, bring a readily accessible copy to class (preferably hard copy), and contribute to the conversation.

Weekly posts:

You will post brief reading responses on Blackboard by 9pm the night before our class (so, Wednesday evenings). The post should be about 150 – 200 words and pose a question and response on any aspect of any reading(s) for that week. Feel free to use your post to respond to others' questions and responses as well. I will use these posts to guide our class discussion so be ready to elaborate on your points.

Authors' defendant:

You will be assigned to serve as the authors' defendant for one class. You will step into the shoes of a couple of the authors of that week and be responsible for presenting their main arguments and evidence. You will be expected to respond to tough questions about the readings and follow the weekly posts on Blackboard.

Short Papers:

The papers are designed to reflect the process where you reconstruct, compare, and critique other arguments before producing your own. Papers are due in hard copy. The final short paper ("Produce") is due on 12/13 by 5pm and must use at least five recommended readings. More instructions will be available closer to the assignments, but follow these page limits:

Reconstruct: 2 - 3 pages

Compare: 3 - 4 pages

Critique: 5 - 6 pages

Produce: 10 - 12 pages

Grading

Guidelines for grading correspond to student performance where,

- A — Outstanding achievement
- B — Very good, commendable achievement
- C — Satisfactory achievement
- D — Minimum performance
- F — Failure without credit

Letter grades will be determined as follows:

| | | | |
|------------------|-------------------|-------------------|---------------------|
| A = 100 – 93% | B+ = 89.5 – 87.5% | C+ = 79.5 – 77.5% | D+ = 69.5 – 67.5% |
| A - = 92.5 – 90% | B = 87 – 83% | C = 77 – 73% | D = 67 – 60% |
| | B- = 82.5 – 80% | C- = 72.5 – 70% | F = 59.5% and below |

Policies

1. No use of cellphones in class. Limited use of laptops/tablets to access course material and take notes.
2. I will do my best to respond within 24 hours to your emails, except after 6 pm and on weekends. If you do not hear from me, feel free to check in.
3. Deadlines are final and late papers will not be accepted.
4. If you anticipate or experience physical or academic barriers based on disability, you are welcome to let me know so that we can discuss options. You are also encouraged to contact the Disability Resource Center at drc@purdue.edu or 765-494-1247.
5. Thoroughly cite all paraphrased and quoted material in your weekly posts and short papers. You are responsible for knowing Purdue's policy regarding academic integrity.
6. Be mindful of Purdue's honor pledge and give others the same respect you would like to receive in our classroom.
7. The syllabus is subject to change with fair notice.

Course Schedule

The course is organized as weekly themes on the following:

Why we study: Anarchy; Sovereignty; Order; Power

How we study: System; State; Individual; Structures; Agency

What we study: Violence; Markets; Rights; Governance

Gender balance of assigned authors: 57% men, 43% women.

Before our class begins, I expect you to have done the following background readings on the history and organization of the discipline of International Relations:

Background Readings (Required)

- ❖ Almond, Gabriel A., and Stephen Genco. 1977. “Clouds, Clocks, and the Study of Politics”
- ❖ BMO Chapter 6 (Realism), Chapter 7 (Liberalism), and Chapter 9 (Social Constructivism)
- ❖ Snyder, Jack. 2004. “One World, Rival Theories”
